

Website Construction

A website is like Building a house.

In this example, we will use plain English explanation of how developments of a website works and what changes can be made and what changes will affect the overall structure of the website should you insist on the changes even when it is not advised by the developer.

Developments of a website includes foundation (Structure - In the Example Structure is shown as a Square) the Development (Building- In this Example the Development is the Building on top of the foundation) and the Design (In this Example the Design are the finer touches/the decorations you add on a fully built structure)

Square Right?

I think after reading the information above, you will agree that the STRUCTURE below is a SQUARE right?

Square Right?

I am glad we agree on something 😊

---

SQUARE & Content Inside

In this example, is a completed Website with Content Inside

Square Right?

I am glad we agree on something 😊

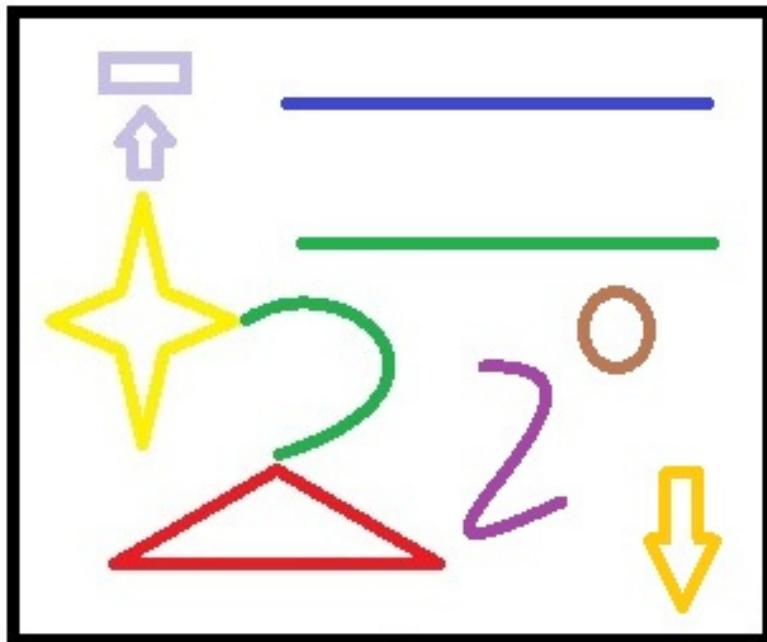

---

SQUARE & Requested Changes

In this example, its your requested changes of the Website Content

(This is like changing the furniture or tiling the floor or painting with a different paint)

The Structure is still a Square right?

Still Square Right?

I am glad we agree on something 😊

INSISTING ON CHANGES

In this example, we depict you requesting for changes on the foundation of the website which is not advised as it affects the overall STRUCTURE of the Website. This is the reason the heading is marked in RED because this is the type of changes that you do not want to requested on an already existing template.

YOU HAVE INSISTED ON CHANGES WHICH WERE NOT ADVISED

IS THIS A SQUARE?

Still Square Right?

NO! NO!

Definitely not a Square

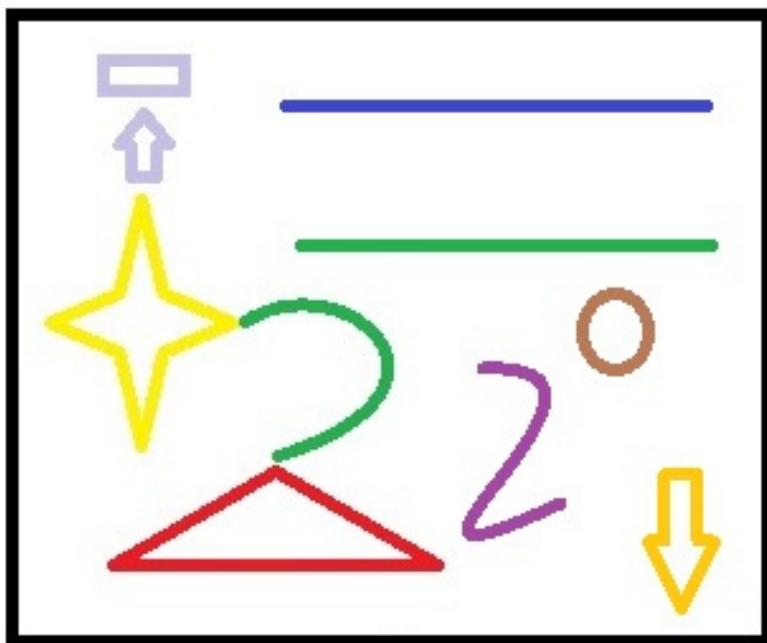

I am glad we agree on something 😊

SQUARE with Approved Changes

In this example, it shows that you can request anything to be added or changed inside the square

(Like changing, adding or moving around the Website Content/Images)

IS THIS A SQUARE?

You requested all this changes, added new things, and changes colours, added a circle inside the Square.

(Like making approved changes on your website and still have the structure remain the same - this is a website template that remained the same template because you changed what is only contained inside which did not affect the structure of the website)

Still Square Right?

I am glad we agree on something 😊

You requested all this changes, your website structure is still the same and not affected
